BETTER THAN FLOGGING.

Water Cure Proves More Effective in Controlling Prisoners in Oregon Penitentiary.

The cold-water cure has recently been adopted at the Oregon state penitentiary with apparently satisfactory results. For all practical purposes flogging has been abandoned. No rule has been established prohibiting flogging, and if a case should be presented in which all other punishment failed the lash might be resorted to, but this is a contingency not deemed probable. The cold-water cure has been found effective in some very obstinate cases, says the Portland Oregonian.

The cold-water remedy consists of stripping the prisoner to the skin and turning upon him a stream of cold water from an ordinary garden hose. The infliction of the punishment is not as brutal as flogging, it leaves no scars nor permanent injuries, and the punishment ends the moment the water is turned off. A prisoner who has been subjected to the punishment once wants no more of it, though he may be smiling within a few moments after the ordeal is over. Gov. Chamberlain and the prison authorities are highly pleased over the result of the experiments, for they have been desirous of abolishing the whip.

Only one prisoner had been flogged during this administration. That man was a trusty and had run away, and upon being captured was given the penalty always imposed in such cases up to that time. Since then two prisoners have been punished with the cold-water remedy. One of them was a big, burly negro. When he came to the prison he was assigned to work in the shops, but refused to obey orders. He asserted that he didn't have to work, and wouldn't work. He was taken to the bathroom, stripped, and stood in a corner. The first spurt of water from the hose brought out a shriek that was evidence of the effectiveness of the remedy. After trying for half a minute to dodge the stream of cold water, the man gave up and began to beg and make promises. The punishment ended, he went to work, and has given no further trou-

The other prisoner subjected to the water cure was a white man. For several months he had been giving trouble and seemed to find enjoyment in disobeying rules, even when he gained nothing by it. Small penalties did no good, and he was finally wasned that another offense would bring severe consequences. A few days later he deliberately violated an important regulation and was sent to the bathroom. He began to beg before the water struck him, and before a pailful of water had been used he was completely subdued. Before he had dressed again he was laughing over the punishment, but his subsequent conduct has proved that he doesn't intend receiving a second dose of water

There are men in the Oregon penitentiary who bear flogging scars that they will carry to their graves. It is received during this administration. Some of the men thus punished are still unconquered, and are perhaps more vicious and more desperate because of the method of inflicting pain. Many a prisoner has sworn that if he ever gets an opportunity he will take the life of the officer who laid the lash across his back. Flogging was degrading both to the prisoner and the man who imposed the punishment. The prisoner was stripped and bound and flogged until, in many instances, the blood flowed down his back. Not so with the water cure. The prisoners are not bound nor cut and bruised. The cold-water cure leaves the offending prisoner with a cleaner body and apparently a more peaceful mind.

SENSE OF SMELL WEAKENED

The Progress of Civilization Seems to Have Made the Olfactory Less Sensitive.

Some one recently remarked that we were losing the sense of smell. In the Boer war it was noticed that we had not the keen eyesight of the hunter and the savage. The primitive physical qualities must needs go with civilization, but as regards the sense of smell, smoking, no doubt, is partly answerable for this, says the London Graphic. The frequent odor of tobacco kills the other scents and the sense of smell needs cultivation.

The ancient Romans paid homage to it at their feasts; the odorous fountains, the wreaths of roses that crowned the guests, the showers of fragrant petals that were wafted down -all these made for the sense of smell. The smell needs as much pandering as the palate.

A keen nose is almost as great an enjoyment as a clear eye. The odor of the red rose, when inhaled from its calyx and pressed against the face. is said to be a cure for headache. Verbena is good for the nerves, the aromatic scents of the pine forest are invigorating, the smell of the damp earth after a shower is delicious, the dying strawberry leaves in the border on an autumn day have a sweetness that those who love it can never forget.
